The organization applies a single-point-of-entry approach, where clients follow one coordinated program tailored to both physical and mental health. This holistic approach results in demonstrably better outcomes, higher client satisfaction, and long-term client relationships.

The company serves both private clients and corporate customers (B2C and B2B), including organizations that implement structural vitality programs for their employees. The combination of healthcare and performance positioning places the company uniquely between traditional physiotherapy practices and conventional fitness providers.

- Strong client loyalty and recurring visits through long-term programs
- Experienced and independently operating team
- Scalable business model with clear expansion opportunities
- Strong positioning within societal trends such as preventive healthcare and vitality

Other

The company is located at a strategic prime location in North Brabant, featuring a modern, professional look and excellent accessibility. The current premises provide sufficient capacity to support further growth within the existing facility.

The team consists of approximately 7 professionals (around 4 FTE), supplemented by a flexible network of self-employed specialists. This structure ensures flexibility in personnel costs, a high quality of service, and continuity in day-to-day operations.

The seller intends to transfer the entire company (100%) and is open to a careful and well-structured handover. The sale is initiated because the current owner wishes to focus on other business activities.

Industry experience is a plus but not required, as daily operations are managed by an experienced team.
