DESCRIPTION: Sale of a mining company based in a major city in Africa. An investment partner is sought to establish a mining operation. The plan is to conduct an exploration test followed by the subsequent exploitation of the land, depending on the results of this test. A geological study of the land is available. The potential profits are very high if the right locations are identified and the expected results are achieved. The main minerals extracted could be gold, diamonds, bauxite, and manganese, with gold being the primary export. Currently, it is an expanding project with the potential to market its products to all European countries. Thousands of hectares of land are available for exploitation under a government concession. Asking price: €200,000 (Sale of 20% of the company shares).
